

Here we are, in the second half of our school year, and the challenges for administrators and teachers, as well as students, are mounting.

Elementary Principals have already attended many of the numerous workshop sessions, through BOCES, to learn more about Teacher Evaluations, Student Learning Objectives, Common Core, etc., and the vast number of changes coming about from the federal as well as state governments.

As always, we at Parkway are all working feverishly to provide our children with the best learning experiences possible, but along with all these changes come more challenges in terms of time and creativity to address the changes.

None of the aforementioned has dampened our Parkway spirit in our quest to do whatever is necessary.

In this next half of the school year, we have many more upcoming exciting trips as well as PTA-sponsored in-house cultural arts events.

We continue to address the issues surrounding bullying and feel that, with the daily recitation of "Parkway's Bully Pledge", group sessions run by the Social Worker and cultural arts programs, lots of progress is being made.

Once again, we thank our parents for their ongoing support and cooperation as we all work together for the benefit of our Parkway students
